

Mates on a Mission – Fly Away to Heaven

When 16 year old Mitch Boyle of Merimbula and his mate James Greenburger heard of the National Fly-a-thon in aid of the people of East Timor, they quickly registered with the Fly Away to Heaven Project.

With great enthusiasm, these two mates took to the streets to seek a sponsor and to fundraise for the cause. It was not long before Mitch and James, with the help of their families, had raised $3,500.

These two mates with cheeky grins are achievers; they are believers that they can make a difference by keeping the ‘Australian Spirit’ alive. Mitch and James can be seen in the Merimbula area selling CD’s of the Project theme song, ‘Earth Angel’s Care’, so if you spot them, support them in their endeavour to help those less fortunate than themselves.

With commitment to the ‘gift of giving’, we hope that Mitch and James will encourage young Australians to seek out what they would like to achieve in life and ‘have a go’.

The sky is the limit for these two mates, and they have aimed high. We trust these young pilots will have a rewarding and memorable experience. So go get your wings and fly up, up into the sky.

Well done Mitch and James!
